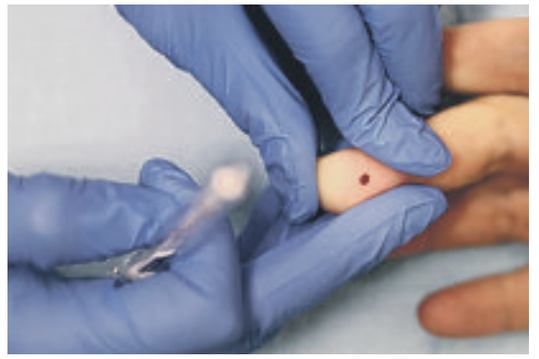
More young people are now HIV positive

By Chris Amery
chris.amery@jpress.co.uk
@ChrisAmery2



More young people have been diagnosed as being HIV positive in the North West in the last two years.

The region's latest HIV and AIDS figures show that 14 per cent of new patients in 2013 were aged 15-24 - the equivalent of two young people presenting to regional services every week.

Overall the number of people living with HIV and accessing treatment and care in the North West in 2013 reached the highest ever level at 7,625 individuals, a four per cent increase on 2012.

But the number of individuals new to services has remained steady with 769 individuals in 2013 - a marginal decrease on the previous year.

Nearly two thirds of all people living with HIV in the region are aged between 30 and 49 years but there are now also sizeable numbers of younger and older people living with HIV.

Older adults - aged 50 and over - accounted for 12 per cent of new patients in 2013, with just under half acquiring their HIV through heterosexual sex.

The most striking change observed in the past decade has been the rising number of heterosexual infections.

Jane Harris, the lead author of the report, said: "There are more than 7,500 people known to HIV services in the North West with continuing numbers of new cases presenting each year. This includes a substantial number of young people under 25.

"A whole generation are now entering young adulthood who will not remember the start of the AIDS epidemic in the 1980s or the national campaigns of that time. It is vital that all young people have access to sex education."

‘I thought I was losing my beloved pet, kind strangers saved her life’

BY LUCY HILTON
lucy.hilton@jpress.co.uk
@LHiltonWIG

A relieved pet owner has thanked the “selfless strangers” who helped to save her drowning dog.

Maggie Gardener was in fear for her beloved Elkie’s life when she fell more than three foot into the Leeds/Liverpool canal in Platt Bridge.

But due to the bravery of passing locals, the 11-year-old cross-breed German Shepherd was rescued.

Maggie, 63, said: “I would just like to express my deepest gratitude to the people who rescued my dog from the murky freezing water of the canal. Without them I dread to think what would have happened.”

Maggie, of Leach Lane, Sutton Leach, was walking her dog along the canal on Sunday after visiting her sister for her birthday.

It was then that the pet fell into the water and was unable to get out.

She said: “I think because it was going dark she was confused and didn’t realise how steep the drop was, she just made a beeline straight for it.

“I was beside myself, I couldn’t reach her and I was just frantic - I didn’t know what to do.

“Luckily there was a couple approaching walking their own two dogs with a choke rope.

“I also asked two guys in their early 30s who were cycling past for help, I was in a state of panic.

“Thankfully the lads came over straight away and one began to reach down to him while the other held his leg.

“The first attempt was aborted as her collar came over her head and for a minute I thought I would lose her, I was absolutely devastated.

“But the eventual rescue was that she was pulled out by her tail with the couple’s choke rope tied around her neck.

“I have honestly never been more relieved in my life and I was just in a state of shock and took her back to my sister’s without getting the rescuers name. Elkie has made a complete recovery and is here all thanks to the selfless strangers.”

Police hail gun amnesty a success

By Chris Amery
chris.amery@jpress.co.uk
@ChrisAmery2

Twenty-six weapons were handed in to St Helens police during a two-week gun amnesty.

Between November 7 and November 21 officers accepted the handing in of illegal firearms over the counter at St Helens Police Station.

Across Merseyside 100 more weapons were also handed in.

Among the force-wide total of 126 weapons was 41 firearms - including 25 shotguns - and thousands of rounds of ammunition.

There were also five rifles and 11 handguns handed in to police.

Twelve of the firearms are now being considered for assessment by the National Ballistics Intelligence Service as part of investigations into their history and use.

Some of the guns and ammo handed in during the two-week amnesty.

DCI Tom Keaton, of the Matrix Serious Organised Crime Major Investigation Wing, said: "We are extremely pleased with the results of the surrender and the firearms that the public have handed in.

"Of the 41 firearms that we have received, many were antique guns, exactly the type that we were targeting, and nearly all appear to have been capable of being discharged.

"Whether or not they have been held illegally in the past all of these weapons could have been fallen into the hands of criminals who would then have used them to cause fear and violence."

He added: "Every weapon handed in is one less which could potentially be used on our streets and I would like to take this opportunity to thank the public for their excellent response to the surrender operation. We have also received 26 air weapons and 24 imitation or deactivated weapons."

£70 fines for parents parking illegally

By Chris Amery
chris.amery@jpress.co.uk
@ChrisAmery2

Selfish school-run parents who ignore waiting restrictions outside St Helens schools could soon find themselves having to pay a £70 parking fine.

Every school across the borough is now subject to spot-checks to ensure that parents and carers are observing the yellow 'school – keep clear' road markings outside school gates.

Many ignore the markings – leading to a large number of complaints from law-abiding parents who are concerned about their children's safety.

Nationally, nearly 1,200 children a month are involved in road accidents within 500m of their school gates.

During the current academic year every school in St Helens will be receiving leaflets entitled Cars and kids don't mix.

The new campaign was launched at Sherdley Primary School. Pupils there highlighted the problem earlier in the year by writing to the council with their concerns.

The campaign message is simple – if you park on any restricted area near a school, you're likely to receive a parking ticket.

The council has pledged to enforce the restrictions too – with no exceptions made for those who merely pull over on the yellow road markings.

Coun Seve Gomez Aspron said "It's time for drivers to start taking this issue more seriously, if only to keep our children safe."

Coun Richard McCauley added: "When parking near to schools, drivers should be thinking of the children rather than themselves."

The new move is a joint initiative between the council's Road Safety and Parking Services sections.

Homes put at risk by faulty gas appliances

By Chris Amery
chris.amery@jpress.co.uk
@ChrisAmery2

Hundreds of St Helens households are using unsafe gas appliances every day - and don't even know it.

Now the National Grid, which runs the gas distribution network across the UK, is urging people to check the online Gas Safe Register before it's too late.

There, people can check the number of unsafe gas appliances found following emergency call-outs in their postcode area and find out more about gas safety at home.

Ian Palfreyman, of National Grid, said: "It is extremely worrying that literally hundreds of cookers, fires and boilers are found to be faulty and dangerous in a single postcode area.

"We would urge everyone who has gas appliances in the home to make sure they have them checked on a 12-month basis by a Gas Safe Registered engineer."

Unsafe appliances could lead to leaks, incidents of carbon monoxide poisoning or even fires and explosions.

In the WA9 postcode area alone, no fewer than 183 cookers, fires and boilers were found to be unsafe.

Across the North West as a whole, one in six households were found to have an unsafe appliance.

Tips for staying gas safe include - always using a Gas Safe registered engineer when having work carried out and getting your gas appliances checked every year.

People are also advised to install a carbon monoxide alarm to alert them if dangerous levels are detected in their home. If you have a gas-related emergency, call 0800 111 999 or visit www.GasSafeRegister.co.uk or call 0800 408 5500.

Charity fund-raiser brings together the mining spirit

By Richard Bean
richard.bean@jpress.co.uk
@RBeanWIG

It was a time of great hardship but one when the Bold community pulled together to protect its own.

Now a politician whose father was a miner at the Bold Colliery, now the site of the famous Dream sculpture, is organising a fund-raising event to mark the 28th anniversary of the end of the miners strike.

Damian Edwardson and his wife Helena hope the some of the special spirit forged as thousands were locked out of the pit heads can be rekindled.

Special guest speaker will be Ian Lavery – former general secretary of the National Union of Mineworkers who succeeded Arthur Scargill, now MP for Wansbeck in Yorkshire since 2010.

There will be food and an 80s flavoured disco with the sounds of the time.

Along with a raffle of pit strike mementoes such as framed photos and NUM posters.

With all proceeds from the event, in the functions suite at The Soccer Dome in Robin Park, Wigan on December 19, going to The Brick homeless charity.

Damian, who has grown up to become councillor for Shevington with Lower Ground, was just about to start secondary school when his dad Harry, a faceworker at the former Bold Colliery, and virtually every one of workmates joined the strike.

After the closure of Bold by the Tories, his family moved to North Wales to put the bitterness and upset behind them and make a new start.

Coun Edwardson said: "That Christmas of 1984 was horrendous. My dad was a miner and I was just a kid, 10 or 11 at the time, but although my mum and dad were very protective and didn't make a great thing of shoving down our throats, both me and my sister knew just how significant the whole thing was.

Damian Edwardson

"I can remember that if it hadn't been for the fact that the community pulled together and gave us toys and food and clothes, it would have been absolutely unbearable. "There is no doubt that without this support it would have broke a lot of people and it has left me with the feeling that it is my duty to remind people about the power of community.

"These are the type of lessons learned that may be, in this time of horrendous austerity, we could do with remembering today. It was the first time, as a kid, that I really got to understand that feeling of a sense of community and just how important a thing it was. People pulling together was such a positive thing."

Tickets for the social evening, priced £5, are currently available from Damian via the website miners84@outlook.com

New jobs in care sector

Dozens of jobs are set to be created following the launch of a new care initiative in St Helens.

Bluebird Care aim to offer tailor-made care and support visits, which enable people to remain in their own homes.

Allen Edwards, who runs the company's new St Helens office alongside care manager Lynne Dillon, estimates that "20 to 40" jobs will be created by the summer of 2015.

He said: "Giving people the ability to have a say in how and where they have their care delivered is an important part of the way we work.

"At Bluebird Care we are committed to providing a good old-fashioned service, which means homecare and support is delivered by staff who are on time, polite and proficient in their role."

Vacancies include care co-ordinators, who will be based at the new office in the Alexandra Business Park, and care workers.

To find out more call Lynne Dillon on 01744 759526.

Mis Sold Packaged Bank accounts

Mis-sold bank accounts are becoming more and more common today, meaning many people are paying for an account that is unsuited to them.

A typical packaged bank account would come with benefits such as travel insurance, breakdown cover and mobile phone insurance etc... However, many of these benefits are useless to the customers that they have been sold too. For example, pensioners may find they are unable to claim on their travel insurance because the terms and conditions contain an age limit or something similar.
The mis-selling packaged bank accounts have also taken on the form of an 'upgrade' with many customers being upgraded without asking or wanting it. Banks are eager to upgrade customers due to packaged accounts being far more profitable than your standard current account.

If you believe that you fall into the category of being mis-sold an account, then we can help! We have tackled many banks with mis-sold PPI and won, and are now ready to take them on in regards to mis-sold bank accounts!

Students' moving visit to a scene of

FEATURE

Students from St Helens were among those who visited the scene of one of the worst crimes against humanity on a moving trip to the infamous concentration camp Auschwitz-Birkenau. The Reporter's ANDREW NOWELL also made the harrowing trip and was profoundly moved by what he saw.

PICTURES: GRAHAMSIMAGES.COM

Newly-arrived prisoners at Birkenau death camp awaiting selection

It is without question one of the worst crimes against humanity. Auschwitz-Birkenau stands today as a monument to the murderous madness of the Nazis.

Sixth formers Philip Clarke and Thomas Kelsall from The Sutton Academy saw the infamous concentration camps where more than a million people were murdered by the Nazis on a trip organised by the Holocaust Educational Trust.

Philip and Thomas, who were joined on the trip to Poland by teacher Alison O'Driscoll, have now become ambassadors for the charity as part of its Lessons From Auschwitz project and are planning a series of events to educate other St Helens residents about the terrible events of World War Two and ensure the Holocaust's victims are never forgotten.

Philip, 18, and Thomas, 17, attended an event in Manchester where they listened to Holocaust survivor Ziggy Shipper before travelling to Poland to see first hand the places where more than 1.1m people, the majority of them Jews, died as part of the Third Reich's inhuman attempts to bring about the Final Solution.

The trip, which involved more than 200 students from colleges across the North West, began in the town of Oswiecim, where Rabbi Andrew Shaw explained a little about the Jewish religion, traditions and culture and the young people paused to remember the 7,000-strong Jewish population which once lived there.

The visit then moved on to Auschwitz I concentration camp, where a series of moving displays show the vast piles of luggage and everyday objects taken from the victims who thought they were going to a new life.

'The visit to Auschwitz was one that we will never forget'

The students then saw the horrifying prison block, known as the block of death, where political prisoners and those who broke camp rules were subjected to almost unspeakable cruelty and horror by the SS and Gestapo, the killing wall with its base adorned with flowers and finally the gas chamber.

The students were then taken to see the horrifying Auschwitz II-Birkenau extermination camp, where at one point in 1944 100,000 people were kept in terrible squalor in wooden or brick barracks which stretch across a bleak and desolate plain for more than a kilometre.

The Polish guides explained the reality of life in Auschwitz, where prisoners suffered and died from a combination of brutal forced labour, starvation rations, exposure and diseases, and how the vast majority of those who were crammed on to trains and sent across Europe were sent straight to their deaths.

Birkenau death camp

The groups stopped for a moment of poignant remembrance beside the blackened ruins of the gas chambers before Rabbi Shaw, himself the grandson of a victim of Nazi persecution, led a moving service in the darkness beside the Birkenau memorial encouraging the students not to give in to grief or despair but to feel hopeful for the future.

The final act of the trip saw the students all light candles and place them in two long lines along the railway track of death which ran through the middle of the extermination camp.

The visit to Auschwitz-Birkenau made a deep impression on students and teachers alike and left the group from The Sutton Academy determined to pass on everything they have learned back in St Helens.

Teacher Alison said: "The visit to Auschwitz-Birkenau was one that we will never forget. the images are hard to formulate and comprehend, from masses of hair, cloth made from the hair, shoes, belong-killing madness

ings including personal items, such as shaving brushes, hair brushes to shoe polish, false limbs, and house keys.

"Items that we feel makes us human and gives us identity and dignity were on display. Unfortunately, for the majority of items we do not know who they belong to.

"The focus of the day was to remember that when we are told the six million people were killed they were individuals, with hopes and dreams, loving families, just the same as us.

"The last room we went into was displaying photographs, mostly telling us names of the people and the type of life they had before the Nazis murdered them, in most cases whole families were killed.

"Images keep coming back to us as the days pass, such as the punishment block. The starvation cell, standing up cell and suffocation cell were just horrific.

"Walking through the gas and shower building was eerily emotional, to think that during World War Two people we walking there and not coming out alive is hard to comprehend.

"The fact that a human could treat other humans in such a cruel and vile way seems unimaginable, but it happened and we really must never forget man's inhumanity and we should remember that all those people who were killed because of hate and anti-Semitism, were individuals.

"It is now our responsibility to spread the word and tell people our experiences and to try to honour those individuals that were murdered, especially those who do not have any family remaining to remember them."

Thomas and Philip discussed their experiences at Auschwitz-Birkenau with The Sutton Academy's year 10 pupils during the school's enrichment day this week.

App idea impresses Dragon

By Chris Amery

Enterprising students from the St Helens College 14-16 Academy have seen their innovative business idea given the thumbs-up by a Dragons Den star.

Peter Jones CBE sent a personal message to students Erin Bispham, Elle Edwards and Fern Twist after they suggested creating an App to replace the student planner.

He described the proposal, developed as part of the Tycoon in Schools initiative, as "a great idea".

The students first had to put together a business plan outlining all costs, overheads, income and profits - just like a real business.

This impressed Peter Jones and the Tycoon team so much that they were immediately awarded a start-up grant.

Buoyed by the confidence Peter Jones showed in them, the students have since got on with the hard job of creating and developing the app and it should be ready for sale to fellow students soon.

Tutor Leyla McGhee said: "The girls suggested that the student planner be replaced by an App, as they never forget their phones!"

Council helps you to stay warm this winter with launch of scheme

St Helens Council, in partnership with Age UK and other agencies, is recruiting good neighbours to keep an eye on older and vulnerable residents in the event of severe weather this winter.

It's all part of the annual campaign to get to grips with the effects of winter on older and vulnerable people.

In England and Wales in 2012-2013, there were an estimated 31,100 excess winter deaths.

Local cold weather volunteers should have a reasonable level of fitness as they could be called on to assist vulnerable residents by clearing snow from driveways and paths and use salt/grit working in the outdoors.

Project partners also want to hear from people who can act as 'tele-befrienders' – who can make regular phone calls to those at risk of becoming isolated in bad weather.

If you don't feel able to formerly volunteer please look in on your older or vulnerable neighbours particularly in severe weather to ensure they stay safe, warm and well this winter.

The appeal comes as the council launches its Winter Warm campaign – which will see 5,000 winter survival packs distributed across the borough. The packs are completely free and are now available to all those in need by calling the St Helens Cold Weather Advice line on Freephone 08000 355 878.

Alternatively packs are being distributed from libraries across the borough, please see the dates and times in the advert to the left.

They include a 2015 calendar with information; advice, hints and tips to help vulnerable people - including the elderly and families - stay warm and safe.

There are also other items in the pack to help people in winter emergencies.

The St Helens Winter Warm Scheme packs are being delivered by St Helens Council in conjunction with Age UK Mid Mersey and other local partner organisations.

St Helens Council's Cabinet Member for Public Health and Well-being, Councillor Andy Bowden said: "Help is available to reduce the illness and deaths from cold weather thanks to campaigns around the country like the St Helens Winter Warm Scheme.

"This year we want to maintain that support and ensure that as many people as possible know about the help that's available to them."

Anyone who can help out – either a cold weather volunteer or tele-befriender – can register their details by calling the same Freephone helpline number - 08000 355 878.

‘I was speechless - and that doesn’t happen to me often!’

By Chris Amery
chris.amery@jpress.co.uk
@ChrisAmery2

An inspirational teacher was left “speechless” after winning a prestigious national award.

Dr Zoe Rosser was stunned to win a Science, Technology, Engineering and Maths Network (STEMnet) gong after receiving an invitation to an awards ceremony at the House of Lords.

The 43-year-old, of Billinge, who completed her teacher training at Fred Longworth in Wigan, had been nominated for her work as a science teacher at St Michael’s CE High School in Chorley.

She said: “It’s not something that happens to me often - but I was totally speechless. I knew I was in the top six for the Most Inspiring Teacher award, but didn’t expect to win. I couldn’t believe it when they read my name out. My husband had to say ‘that’s you, you’ve won, go and get your certificate’.

“It was a fantastic day though. I’d never been to the House of Lords before and probably never will again!”

Dr Rosser only moved into teaching in her mid-30s after working as a scientific researcher at Leicester University. She was saluted not just for her work in the classroom, but for her commitment to demonstrating how science is used in the real world. As well as running an after school STEM club.

Oldest hockey player in the world

Amazingly, the grandfather-of-two, of Sandringham Drive, Sutton, first joined the Liverpool-based club way back in 1944!

He said: "I actually beat the record last year without even knowing. It wasn't just a one-off either – I'm still a regular player.

"My daughter then told me I might be a world record holder but, in order to qualify for the Guinness Book of Records, I had to play a whole game – I couldn't just be a substitute and play a couple of minutes.

"I still enjoy it. It keeps me young and keeps me fit."

Mr Adams joined West Derby Hockey Club during the Second World War when he was just 14. He started out as a left-half before dropping to full-back because "it involves less running"!

Robert playing for West Derby

He played for the first team until the mid 1960s when he moved down to London – but kept his eye in playing for West Essex.

The retired craft, design and technology teacher then rejoined his old club when he moved to St Helens.

But what does his wife, Elsie, 80, think of him playing on?

"She thinks I'm getting a bit old for it now," he admitted.

"But my family have always been incredibly supportive of me. I still love the social side of things and the game itself.

"Luckily, when you play hockey you don't get the buffeting you get playing football or rugby – the collisions are not as frequent or as physical.

"I'm planning to carry on until my tea-mates have had enough of me!"

West Derby Hockey Club chairman Alan Jones said: "It's amazing that he not only still wants to play but is able to play. Rob's very popular and is more or less a permanent fixture at our club.

"His appetite for the game is incredible. He's obviously been lucky with his health but he just hasn't stopped – that's the key. He still tackles and gets the ball away. I know his wife wants him to stop but even if he does bow out at the end of this season, he'll bow out a world record holder."

●● Council leader Barrie Grunewald said: "Everyone wants to see a successful town centre. Free parking on Saturdays is already giving our retailers a big helping hand, with more and more people appreciating the convenience – and cost benefits – of shopping locally."

Rates system petition gathers pace

The St Helens Reporter's campaign to persuade the Government to launch an immediate review of the much maligned business rates system is continuing to gather support.

So far more than 5,000 people have signed the petition, both in this newspaper and online, in a bid to convince our leading politicians that business rates need to be overhauled now, rather than wait for a review in more than two years' time. We have also called for business rates to be frozen while this review is conducted.

Our campaign has received praise from many quarters and now Helen Dickinson, director general of the British Retail Consortium (BRC), has said: "The ratchet effect built into the current system sees many businesses paying rates that far exceed their rent and only ever increase, no matter how the economy is doing.

"I would ask your readers who own a business and pay rates to make the case for fundamental reform of the system to their local MP. If we get fundamental reform right then the high street will get the shot-in-the-arm that it so badly needs and the next government will find it easier to rebalance the economy, secure more investment and remove the disincentives to operating on the high streets and in town centres."

A spokesman for our campaign partners British Independent Retailers Association (Bira), is delighted with the public's response and said: "The petition campaign is building momentum strongly and its combination of local engagement and national importance is unique. It's a vital part of a growing movement to counter a damaging tax that will see another 2.3 per cent loaded on top of the burden on local businesses."

Ashley Highfield, the chief executive of our owner Johnston Press, said: "It's clear from the number of people that have signed our petition already the depth of feeling and support there is for small businesses up and down the country. Local businesses drive local economy and when that happens communities then thrive.

"As local media owners we have a duty to businesses - and the communities they serve - to ensure this remains on the news agenda if change is to happen and urge everyone to not only sign the petition but to shop locally too. These are the sorts of issues which are going to be of critical importance in the run up to the elections next year - and decision makers need to start listening."

Our campaign has captured the imagination of people from all over the country including Conrad Carter, Preston, who said: "As a business owner I feel I have enough pressure in keeping up with running cost's without the added pressure of business rates. It's a constant worry that if business is bad you still have to find funds in order to cover, what I feel are unnecessary costs. I feel the government should try and help all businesses, but especially independent business as we are vital to the economy."

Johnstone Press CEO Ashley Highfield

Sue Evans, from Bexhill-on-Sea, said: "The business tax system is crippling business and needs to be realistic is it better to have no business tax as there are no businesses left? Council business rate tax is ridiculous too which is why all our high streets are clogged up with charity shops as they are the only 'businesses' which get a discount! All wrong and bad economic practice."

Louise Thalmann, from Widley in Hampshire, said: "Being a small business shop owner, I understand all too well the stress and strain that the business rates add to my finances each month, especially within the first two years. Local independent businesses are great for the community, they bring people into our shopping centres and precincts and boost the economy.

"Imagine if we had rate relief - it would allow many of us to employ staff and would give us the best possible chance of surviving our first two years which are always the toughest."

Do things early and enjoy a stress-free festive season

Food writer and cook James Ramsden may have an extra special guest at Christmas this year, as his first baby with wife Rosie is due on December 20.

"We're going to play it by ear - if he happens to be early, then we might go up to my parents in Yorkshire for Christmas, but as things stand, we'll be here in London," he says, smiling broadly.

Ramsden, a 29-year-old food blogger, who ran trendy supper club The Secret Larder, is having quite a year. When we speak, he's caught between moving into a new a house and promoting his new cookbook, Do-Ahead Christmas.

In it, he unpacks his philosophy of preparing well in advance, to make Christmas Day in particular as stress-free as possible.

"Apart from the big-ticket items like the turkey, the majority can be done ahead," he says. "The sweet stuff and all the little bits and pieces that are not necessarily essential - they're the things to get done well in advance and chuck in the freezer.

"And there's a lot you can do on Christmas Eve and in the week running up to Christmas, so it means that you can actually enjoy Christmas Day.

"It sounds kind of trite and idealistic, but it's really not, and that's how I've operated forever . It means you sit down and have a nice time, as opposed to hiding in the kitchen - and everyone else can have a nice time because you're not in a flap!"

Christmas lunch, he believes, is "one of those meals that people pile stress on when, actually, you're doing a turkey and a few sides."

Read on for some of Ramsden's top do-ahead tips, and we have three festive recipes to try at home.

ON CHRISTMAS EVE

Brine your turkey, goose or whatever meat you're having on Christmas Day: "Just soak it in a bucket of salted water for a day, so it's really well seasoned."

Peel and par boil roast potatoes: "By the time you come to roast them, they're going to be completely dry, which means they'll be more crisp and delicious."

Par-boil and blanch (plunge into ice-cold water) vegetables: "Even the green ones, and they can just sit in the fridge happily overnight."

Make the bread sauce, cranberry sauce and stock for your gravy.

ON CHRISTMAS DAY

James says: "All you have to do is the main thing, the turkey or whatever it might be, roast some potatoes and then heat everything up - and it tastes every bit as good. Then have a nice time!"

Do-Ahead Christmas: Stress-free Cooking For The Festive Season by James Ramsden is published by Pavilion Books, priced £16.99.

CHESTNUT AND CHORIZO SOUP WITH SAFFRON CREAM

(Serves 6-8)

Freezable (without saffron cream)

INGREDIENTS

Olive oil
200g chorizo, cut into small cubes
1 onion, chopped
1 garlic clove, chopped
1 stick of celery, chopped
1 carrot, finely chopped
Salt and pepper
1/2tsp chilli flakes
1tsp finely chopped rosemary
1tsp ground cumin
200g cooked chestnuts, roughly chopped
400g canned chopped tomatoes
1L chicken stock
100ml double cream
A few saffron strands

METHOD

Up to three days ahead (min. one hour):

Heat a drop of oil in a large saucepan and fry the chorizo until crisp. Remove with a slotted spoon and set aside. Add the onion, garlic, celery and carrot to the pan. Season with salt and pepper and cook over a low heat for 15-20 minutes, until soft and lightly golden. Add the chilli flakes, rosemary and cumin and stir for a minute or so, then add the chestnuts, tomatoes, stock and half the chorizo. Bring to the boil and simmer gently for 15 minutes.

Blend until smooth, leave to cool, then chill or freeze.

In a small pan, gently warm the cream with the saffron for five minutes, then set aside to cool. Cover and chill.

30 minutes ahead:

Warm the soup over a gentle heat, stirring occasionally. Take the saffron cream out of the fridge. Put the remaining chorizo in a warm oven or gently warm through in a frying pan. Warm some bowls if possible (I never remember).

To serve:

Ladle into bowls and top with a few chunks of chorizo and a dribble of saffron cream.

APPLE SNOW WITH FENNEL BISCUITS

(Serves 6)

Freezable biscuits

INGREDIENTS

For the Fennel Biscuits:
100g unsalted butter, softened
100g caster sugar
A pinch of sea salt
1tsp fennel seeds, lightly crushed
Zest of 1 lemon
150g plain flour

For the Apple Snow:
2 large cooking apples (500-600g)
Juice of 1 lemon
150g caster sugar
2 egg whites

To serve:
Double cream

METHOD

Up to two week ahead (min. two hours):

Make the biscuits: beat the butter, sugar, salt, fennel seeds and lemon zest together until pale and light. Sift in the flour a little at a time, stirring as you go, until it forms a dough. Knead briefly with lightly floured hands until it comes together. Roll out the dough on a lightly floured surface to about 1cm thick, and cut out 12 biscuits. Prick a few times with a fork, then put on a baking sheet and chill for 20-30 minutes.

Preheat the oven to 160C/Gas mark 3. Bake the biscuits for 15-20 minutes until pale golden. Transfer to a wire rack to cool. Store in an airtight container in a cool, dry place.

Up to one day ahead (min. two hours):

Peel, core and roughly chop the apples. Put in a pan with the lemon juice, sugar, and a splash of water. Cover and cook over a medium-low heat for 10-15 minutes, stirring regularly, until completely softened. Blend until smooth, then transfer to a bowl and leave to cool. In a clean bowl, whisk the egg whites until they form stiff peaks. Fold the whites thoroughly, though gently, through the cold apple, then cover and chill.

To serve:

Serve the apple snow with the biscuits and a splash of cream.

ROAST DUCK WITH BLACKBERRIES

(Serves 4-6)

INGREDIENTS

2kg duck, ideally including giblets
25g butter
4 shallots, sliced
2 garlic cloves, sliced
1 stick of celery, chopped
Salt and pepper
300ml red wine
300ml chicken stock
A big sprig of thyme
1 bay leaf
25g cold butter, cubed
3tbsp balsamic vinegar
200g blackberries

METHOD

Up to one day ahead (min. five hours):

Cut the wing tips off the duck. Discard the liver, then roughly chop the remaining giblets. Melt the butter over a medium-high heat in a wide pan and add the giblets, wing tips, shallots, garlic and celery. Season with salt and pepper and cook for 10 minutes or so, stirring regularly, until golden and softened. Add the wine, bring to a boil, then gently simmer to reduce by half. Add the stock and herbs, simmer gently for 30 minutes, then strain through a sieve. Leave to cool, cover, and chill.

Three-and-a-half hours ahead:

Preheat the oven to 120C/Gas mark 1/2. Prick the duck very lightly all over with a needle, taking care not to pierce through to the flesh. Rub all over with salt and pepper, then place in a roasting pan and cook for two hours. Remove from the oven and tip away the excess fat (save it for roast potatoes). Whack up the oven to 220C/Gas mark 7 and return the duck to the oven. Roast for a further 30-45 minutes, until the skin is crisp.

30 minutes ahead:

Gently warm the gravy. Remove the duck from the oven and transfer to a plate (ideally warmed), and rest in a warm place. Tip any additional excess fat from the pan. Put the roasting pan over a medium-high heat and add a splash of water. Simmer, scraping up all the caramelized juices stuck in the pan, then tip these into the gravy. Bring the gravy up to a simmer and add the cubed butter, whisking well. Add the balsamic vinegar and blackberries, taste for seasoning and add a little salt if necessary. Keep warm.

To serve:

Carve the duck and serve with the blackberry gravy.

Arranging a Funeral

After the passing of a loved one, arranging their funeral can be overwhelming. Knowing what costs to expect will help you make better decisions and can relieve any unnecessary stress.

If you take on the responsibility of payment, it's important to understand what fees are both applicable and optional. Enlisting the help of a funeral director to help with the administration and final arrangements is what you must do.

When emotions are running high, dealing with finances and the deceased's estate is never easy. Most funerals are arranged by either the next of kin or a close friend. If there is nobody to undertake the procedures, the local health authority will arrange a simple funeral.

Using a Funeral Director

The majority of funerals are arranged by a funeral director. They will take on the responsibility of arranging the logistics of the funeral on your behalf and ensure that everything is legally sound.

Standard responsibilities often include:

- Finding a coffin.
- Transporting the body to the funeral director's premises.
- Taking care of the person who has passed.
- Providing a hearse.
- Providing people to carry the coffin.
- Making legal arrangements.

Additional services may include:

- Buying flowers.
- Informing the press.
- Hiring extra cars.
- Catering arrangements.
- The use of a Chapel of Rest.
- Arranging an organist.

When you have decided what funeral director to use, they will provide a breakdown of their services and costs with an overall price estimate. And on this page are Funeral Directors happy to serve you, do tell them you saw them in your St Helens Reporter.

Over 60 and still paying off debts? Maybe a Lifetime Mortgage could be a solution…

By Phil Rea

When I arranged my first Lifetime Mortgage, the loan was to provide a cruise for my client. Increasingly however, clients are paying off debt. So what are the possible reasons behind this change?

- Inadequate pension income. With annuity rates being low some clients are experiencing an income shortfall and are living on an income much lower than was anticipated.
- Low interest rates on savings. With interest rates often lower than 1%, the return on savings means a reduction in overall income.
- Clients supplementing their children's income. Recently, I saw a client who was paying their grandchildren's school fees due to their father being made redundant. The clients had themselves taken out a personal loan to pay for these hoping that their son would be 'back on his feet' but after a year of looking for work, no suitable employment had been found. (The bank of Mum and Dad!)
- Paying for medical or funeral costs. I have seen clients who have chosen to pay privately for medical treatment as 'we have less time left at our time of life' and again I saw a client who had to raise cash to pay for his wife's funeral as they hadn't made provision in the form of insurance or funeral plans.
- Interest only mortgages. This is where clients are faced with re-paying their mortgage in retirement but do not have the capital to re-pay the loan.
- Credit card and personal loan debt. Often used to supplement income to 'make ends meet' but unfortunately now at a level where they cannot repay the debt.
- Divorce. Increasing amongst the over 60's and leaving both clients with an income shortfall.

So how can a Lifetime Mortgage help?

One of the main advantages of these plans is that the amount you borrow is based not on your income but on the value of your property and your age, as you need to be 55+. You also retain full ownership of your home and are free to live in the property for as long as you wish.

You can choose to take your money as a one-off lump sum or you can take smaller amounts initially and have a reserve which you draw on in the future. Finally, for those wishing to make payments, a number of plans have a facility to repay the interest and even some of the money borrowed!

Unclaimed premium bonds up for grabs

By Chris Amery
chris.amery@jpress.co.uk
@ChrisAmery2

People in St Helens are being urged to check their premium bonds after new figures revealed there is more than £1.5m worth of unclaimed prizes in the region.

Locals can use the free Premium Bonds Prize Checker to track some of the thousands of unclaimed prizes that can be claimed from as far back as 1957.

Across the UK more than 928,000 premium bonds prizes worth over £41m remain untouched, including more than 32,000 in St Helens and the surrounding region - worth more than £1,500,000.

NS&I are calling for bond holders to come forward to claim their prizes, and to sign-up to have their winnings paid directly into their bank accounts to reduce the chances of prizes going unclaimed in future.

A winning premium bond.

Prizes can go undelivered and unclaimed as a result of changes in holders' addresses, or if bonds were bought for them as a child and they have subsequently lost track of them.

For customers to avoid missing out it's important for them to keep NS&I up to date of any change in contact details.

One of the unclaimed prizes is worth £100,000 and is one the top five unclaimed prizes in the UK. Almost a third of the UK population have invested over £51 billion in premium bonds and every eligible bond is entered into the monthly prize draw.

Every month almost two million prizes are distributed, either by warrant (like a cheque) or by being paid directly into holders' bank accounts.

To sign up holders should go online at: www.nsandi.com

HEALTH

Our simple tips will help you stay very cool in the colder weather

Five winter activities that are cheap, easy and wonderful for your health

Money can be tight at this time of year, and the weather can be dismal - but don't let that stop you enjoying the winter months.

In fact, sometimes the simplest things offer the most rewards; here are some suggestions that won't break the bank and might top up your wellbeing and relaxation reserves too.

WINTER PICNIC

Picnics are one of the biggest joys of summer - but who says they're off limits the rest of the year?

OK, so a picnic isn't very practical if it's blowing a blizzard or lashing it down with rain. But on a cool, clear day, it's the perfect mini adventure, and getting outdoors for some fresh air - and to soak up all the daylight you can - is really important during the winter months, when many of us tend to go into hibernation mode.

Gather the troops, wrap up warm, choose a walking route - this can be as long and strenuous or as short and easy as you want (even a gentle 15-minute stroll gets the blood pumping and counts as very useful exercise) - pack up your supplies (a thermos of something warm's a good idea), and off you go. Just don't forget to pack an extra blanket...

WARDROBE SORT-OUT

A damp, dingy day could be the perfect opportunity to de-clutter and reorganise your wardrobe.

Now before you turn the page, bear with me - I assure you, it's a lot more fun than it sounds, and very rewarding.

Get everything out onto the bed then sort it into piles: rubbish, charity shop, things to keep. Most of us are guilty of hoarding things we're never going to wear again, things we need to mend but know we never will... This might not sound like the most appealing task but there is genuine pleasure in having a good clear-out.

Plus, you might rediscover some forgotten gems - play around with different outfit combos.

You could end up with a de-cluttered wardrobe that's easier to keep tidy, a refreshed outfit line-up and a well-deserved sense of calm and satisfaction.

BE INSPIRED

Is there anything more beautiful than a sunny autumn or early winter day, when the sky's vivid blue, contrasting so perfectly with the yellowed, reddened and orange-tinged leaves and everything's crisp and fresh?

And is there ever a better time to get that camera out and head outside for a photo-shoot?

Digital cameras have made getting creative with photography easy and most of us love taking snaps - so why not make an afternoon of it? Head out alone, or rope in a friend or small group.

Play around with your camera settings and experiment with angles, close-ups and wide shots - anything that doesn't work you can just delete afterwards.

This is a great way to connect with your surroundings, get out and explore and enjoy being creative.

HOME SPA DAY

Fun pampering sessions aren't just for schoolgirls on sleepovers; they're a fantastic way to unwind and give yourself a little confidence boost.

We're always going on about how hectic and stressful our modern lives are.

Well there's only one way to combat that, and that's to actually make an effort to slow down and re-charge.

If you've only got an hour before family duties call, that's enough time for a peaceful, pampering bath - light a scented candle, fill the tub with your favourite bubbles or oil, pop on a face mask then lie back and enjoy a nice soak.

Or, have a natter with a friend while you both do a home mani or pedicure.

It's amazing how paying a little bit of attention to yourself and indulging in some 'me time' can really help untangle your worries and boost the spirits.

'Fun pampering sessions are a fantastic way to unwind.'

There's lots of ways you can enjoy the winter months.

MAKE IT A MOVIE NIGHT

Many of us spend a large chunk of our lives plonked in front of a TV screen.

But, when was the last time you actually made a real event of it? A proper, old-school movie night; the kind you used to adore as a kid?

I'm talking the works: inviting your best mate, planning what you're going to watch, making your own popcorn, snuggling up with lots of cushions and some steaming hot chocolate (or large glass of wine!), laughing out loud at the funny bits (or sobbing at the sad bits) and then dissecting the plot together afterwards...Don't ever think you're too old for this.

And don't ever think movie nights are something you only do when you don't have 'better' plans; this is pure, simple joy at its best.

Residents being urged to give blood

Health chiefs are urging St Heleniers to give blood in the run-up to Christmas.

More than 200,000 donors are needed over the festive period - although last year one in five donor appointments were missed putting the service under strain.

Blood donor sessions scheduled across St Helens throughout December take place at the following venues:

Friday, December 5

Civic Hall, Church Road, Rainford (2pm to 4pm and 5.30pm and 7.30pm)

Tuesday, December 9

Labour Club, Elephant Lane, Thatto Heath (2pm to 4pm and 5.30pm and 7.30pm).

Garden centre marks its 25th anniversary

The reins at a family-run St Helens garden centre, which is this year marking its 25-year anniversary, are set to be passed down to the next generation.

Jane and Richard Cole started Suregrow Garden Centre back in 1989, but are now set to hand over the top job to their daughter, Debbie Mawdesley.

Debbie, pictured right with fellow long-serving Suregrow staff member Robbie Fitzhenry, admitted that the Merton Bank Road garden centre's 25-year milestone was an "incredible landmark".

She said: "It's a big milestone for a small, family-run business like ours to reach – especially in the current economic climate.

"We're all immensely proud to have reached the 25-year anniversary. Here's to another 25 years!"

Debbie reckons it is the staff at Suregrow Garden Centre's attention to detail, particularly when it comes to providing the best possible customer service – combined with competitive prices – which had led to the business standing the test of time.

She added: "Our business has always been based on providing good customer service, good value and good quality products.

"And we genuinely care about every customer who walks through the door.

"That's where we like to think we can do that bit better than the bigger gardening shops.

"We always try to give our customers that little bit extra wherever we can – and give them that little bit more time."

Christmas tree sales forms a large part of their business at this time of year.

As well as selling beautiful, real Christmas trees they're also currently selling Christmas lights at half price.

Five tips for home maintenance

Julia Gray shares tips on essential home care

1 Dont put off jobs
The Society for the Protection of Ancient Buildings' (SPAB) National Maintenance Week (November 21-28) is an annual event designed to encourage owners of all sorts of buildings, not just ancient ones, to be aware of the importance of regular care. Good maintenance is not only common sense though, it also makes economic sense, particularly at this time of year. Problems like leaking gutters and blocked drains don't mend themselves - the longer you ignore them, the more expensive and difficult they often become to put e.

2 Check for leaks and blockages
Autumn's the time when drains and gutters can get blocked by leaves and debris like twigs and bird nests. If anything obstructs the easy flow of water away from a building, damp can occur. If you notice that water's falling sharply from a certain point on a gutter, there's probably a blockage there, so scoop it out with a trowel, taking full safety precautions if you're using a ladder. To stop gutters getting blocked, fit gutter guards, grates that block debris but still allow rainwater to get through.

3 Inspect your home's roof for damaged or slipped tiles
Check your roof from the inside by looking for chinks of daylight in the loft. Outside, you usually find that using a pair of binoculars helps you get a clear view of the roof. Even a relatively small gap in the tiles can let in enough water to cause damage, so address the problem before damage occurs, or spreads, by calling in a roofer."

4 Repair wooden windows Chipped, cracked and flaking paint can let in water, which eventually rots wood. If the wood's already suffering from wet rot, scrape out the worst of it, treat the rest with a wood-hardening liquid designed for wet rot, and fill with an exterior wood filler - Polycell Polyfilla for Wood Large Repairs (from £9.99, Homebase) is a professional-style two-part filler that's much easier to use than most. Finally, sand and clean off the repair, and apply exterior wood paint.

5 Look over your home's exterior
Missing pointing and damage to render and paintwork can cause damp inside. If there's moss or algae on an exterior wall, water is getting to it, perhaps from a dripping downpipe or gutter. Solve the problem and scrub off the growth. A good masonry paint, like those by Sandtex, provides all sorts of long-lasting protection for exterior walls.

How to...

If your home has damp, but you're not sure what sort of damp it is, watch Ronseal's 'How to find and fix your damp problems' video at www.youtube.com/watch?v=V63XWGxdUEk.

When you've solved the problem, treat the stain with Ronseal Anti Damp Paint (from £19.99 for 750ml, Homebase), which permanently blocks damp but allows trapped moisture to escape - see www.youtube.com/watch?v=wVMdxkvUzQ8. This paint is oil-based but nice to use and fairly quick-drying - just make sure you brush it out well for a good finish. It can be recoated after just four hours, so you'll have the wall or ceiling back to normal in no time.

Innovative Marketing at an Affordable Price

The Advent calendars are open but as we roll towards Christmas lets not forget the last few years have seen a respectably busy December.

View Rd, Rainhill £390,000

As Morgan Freeman would say, this home has MORE THAN 1,700 sq ft of family space. Set back from the street, which allows for plenty of parking, this semi-detached house boasts five bedrooms and two bathrooms as well as loads of living space on the ground floor. The kitchen is a real family room with plenty of space for all. The grounds to the rear are in keeping with the rest of the property, there is MORE THAN you would expect! E54

West Park Rd, West park £265,000

Great family home! or should we call this bespoke detached bungalow a Tardis? There are two/three or four bedrooms and three bathroom / shower rooms, but the big issue is the amount of living space, there is loads spread across the property. It's fair to say that you will spend most of your time in the back of the property which has an all in one living space. Viewing highly recommended. E48

Kiln Close, Eccleston £249,995

Extended in all of the right places! Tucked away in this quiet little cul-de-sac this semi detached home has been added to firstly to make four bedrooms and then to create some really useful space on the ground floor. The property is very nicely presented throughout and is now ready to make its next generation a family home. Oh and lets not forget it still has the garage! EPC D63

Harvard Gr, Eccleston Park £193,000

Packaged with Extras! As a three bedroom detached house this example breaks the mould of what might be expected. The list of extras is impressive, there is an extra reception room, then a conservatory, then the kitchen has been re-styled to create a clever space, of course there is an en-suite as well. When you drop in for a viewing you will realise how pleasant this little development is, and handy for most forms of communication as well! E53

Irwin Rd, Sutton Park £125,000

Touches! As semi-detached houses go this example in Sutton has so many nice touches. In addition to the three bedrooms there is a really nice bathroom on the first floor, the living rooms have been tastefully decorated and presented, the grounds are well presented, the garage will make a brilliant workshop!

Sandfield Cres, Whiston £285,000

Quiston Grange is a select development of high quality homes . The WREN has been designed with the family in mind with four bedrooms, but the American style kitchen and dining area at the rear of the property is an ideal place to entertain. Set over three floors, the spacious master bedroom and en-suite are situated on the top floor. C80

Penrith Rd, Eccleston Park £190,000

Handy Family! Take one good size modern detached house, add four bedrooms, mix in two bathrooms and stick it in a popular and convenient location and out pops this property in Eccleston Park. Additional extras include a utility room, an extra toilet, a garage and a decent garden. C71

Berkeley Ct, N-I-W £185,000

Massive Cornering On Offer! This four bedroom detached bungalow is set on a corner plot within this select development. As you would imagine the ground floor accommodation lends itself to a family. Spinners Dr, Sutton £149,995

Home Spun Home! Situated on Spinners Drive this modern detached house is tailor-made as a family home. There are three bedrooms, two bathrooms plus en-suite, two reception rooms and a family size garden. The front lounge is at the larger end of the scale. C70

Stirling Cres, Sherdley £139,950

A neat and tidy example of a family home. With three bedrooms this semi detached house has some very nice ground floor accommodation. The garage can still be used as just that!, and the gardens are well kept. With a school, station and link road all within easy reach. D61

Room to Grow! Sat within the bounds of a corner plot this semi detached property has all of the extra land you might expect. The land to the rear is in two parts with a conventional garden and then a parking area with double access gates. D58

Victoria Rd, Garswood £115,000

New St, Sutton £110,000

Spacious Proportions! Built in an age when having plenty of space was the key this mid terrace home has three bedrooms as well as two reception areas and a dining kitchen. The bathroom on the first floor matches this being as spacious as you might expect. High ceilings and the odd original feature capture the character of the age. D63

Bideford Ave, Sutton Leach £105,000

Ever Popular! This three bedroom semi detached house is a classic for the area. There are gardens front and rear as well as a drive for parking. Internally the property has a nice bathroom and a well equipped kitchen. A good place to start? E54

Marsden Ave, Eccleston £98,500

Pantry Included! This a good size semi detached home with two bedrooms and modern accommodation. Both the kitchen and bathroom are modern additions to the property and set in this amount of space there is certainly potential to add a few bits if that is your want. Of course having open land to the rear adds to the attraction. D56

North Rd, Town Centre £95,000

A Typical North Road Terrace! With this we mean a larger than expected Victorian home with three bedrooms and two decent size reception rooms. With the benefits of being North Road such as access to the town centre and for drivers access over to the East Lancs Road. D62

Aspire
Sales & Lettings

Aspire Sales and Lettings recently opened its first of several planned offices in Rainford with Chris Boyd and his experienced team hoping to bring a new dimension to estate agency with innovative sales options and rental price led management initiatives.

Chris with many years experience within the property market of St Helens and the North West explained" Whilst many agents talk about being different few if any bring anything new to the market place this is where we at Aspire intend to offer a new innovative approach to vendors wishing to sell their property , or to the landlord wishing to maximise his return on his investment."

After considerable research and discussions with internet based agents, traditional agents and vendors it was identified that whilst the internet based agent could without doubt save a potential vendor money there was a certain reluctance to deal with a company who had offices in another part of the country, additionally it concluded that a lot of the personal service was lost which was off putting to many people.

Likewise after discussions with Landlords with portfolios of between one to seventy five properties it was evident that many wanted a professional locally based agent to effectively manage their property in an efficient and cost effective way as well as being on hand to find any prospective new tenants. Together with an in house maintenance team dealing with leaky tap to a full renovation.

Chris continued " We have specifically chosen to open at this time of the year to help both landlords and vendors on a personal level re assess their current arrangements and explore our schemes and options on offer. I would welcome the opportunity to meet anyone who would like more information on our many services we provide."

Redundancies blow
20 years ago

Production at the SmithKline Beecham factory ground to a halt but the bitter blow of 480 redundancies was slightly softened by an innovative £4m development plan for a learning legacy.
As a parting gift to the town which served the pharmaceutical industry for more than 100 years, SmithKline Beecham donated its Water Street site to St Helens College.
The famous clock tower was set to remain intact but all the other buildings were set to be demolished to make way for new town centre college facilities.

A homesick gnome
25 years ago

A long-time resident of Ramford Street, Parr, turned his back on his two fisherman pals to set off on a world tour. But his trip was made all the more amazing considering he was a one-foot-high gnome! Bearded Cyril disappeared from Pat Carty's home in a shroud of mystery before keeping in touch with his owner courtesy of postcards from Liverpool, Manchester, Oxford, London and the Greek isle of Kos.
Mrs Carty, who had her suspicions as to who was behind the prank, said: "I don't half miss the little fellow. There's no place like gnome."

Train crash escape
30 years ago

A Sutton woman told how she narrowly escaped death in a train crash near Salford which killed two people and injured more than 70... because she wanted a cigarette.
Barbara Skinner, 43, of Dominic Way, reckoned she would have been killed if she had sat in the first compartment of the train, which ran into a fuel train carrying 30,000 gallons of petrol.
She said: "I was going to sit in the first carriage but it was for non smokers so I went into the second one instead.
"The first was completely engulfed in flames. I would have stood no chance."

OUR COMMENT

Hockey a lifelong passion

You tend to come across quite a few amazing characters when you work in local newspapers.
But very few interviewees have left the same mark on us as the world's oldest hockey player - 84-year-old Robert Adams.
Most 80-somethings count themselves lucky if they're still active, but Robert not only wants to remain active - he wants to carry on playing a part in competitive sport!
It is quite incredible to think that he first joined his current hockey club - West Derby - as a teenager when the Second World War was still raging.
He's still waiting for the Guinness Book of Records to verify that he's the oldest ever hockey player, but there seems little doubt that all the necessary boxes have been ticked.
Amazingly, he actually broke the record unwittingly last year - but has continued to play an active part at his beloved West Derby, both on and off the pitch, ever since.
Even a move down to London in the 1960s couldn't dim his love of the game and, as soon as he moved back to his native Merseyside, he rejoined the West Derby club.
His outlook on his own ongoing contribution is refreshing too.
When we asked how long he could go on for, he simply said: "Until my teammates have had enough of me."
He's an inspiration to us all.

Thank you for handing in my keys

I would like to thank the kind and thoughtful person who went to the trouble of handing in my keys to College Street Police Station when I lost them in Duke Street. It is people like you who keep our faith in human nature when there are so many bad actions in this world.

ELECTION

Political class must learn lessons

The Rochester bye election really opened my eyes at how much contempt and disdain our elected politicians hold for the electorate whom it seems are only of use as voting fodder to be put back in their boxes once the inconvenience of an election is dispensed with. But I suspect the political parties will be bombarding us with lots of "All things to all men" promises over the next six months as telling porkies to the electorate as become second nature and will become more profuse as the general election draws closer.
As far as Emily Thornberry, the ex-shadow attorney general, is concerned Ed Miliband really had no option but to sack her after she had posted her cock a snook picture of her idea of a typical working class house on Facebook. The problem he had is that this is an image that he and many of his pseudo so-called socialist colleagues believe in but dare not mention for fear of upsetting the natives, which of course is exactly what it did.

POLITICS

Give us our say over Europe issue

If David Cameron were really serious about closing our wide open borders presently allowing the uncontrolled immigration required by the EU, he would give the UK an 'In Out EU Referendum' before the next election, so that he could realistically argue with the EU that this was indeed the will of the British people.
But he won't, because basically he is a pro-European and is making a show of negotiating with the EU over the open borders issue, in order to placate his backbenchers who are threatening to join UKIP.
Unfortunately the way he is approaching this issue (together with their latest £1.7 billion demand), he is up setting most of the EU leaders (including the new president) who will likely oppose any UK future trading with EU if the UK (as Norway as EU non-members presently do) do elect to remove ourselves from the EU at sometime in the future.

COMMENT

Council leader
Barrie Grunewald

Motorway upgrade is great news

Some really exciting news this week – with the announcement that the government has agreed to fund the motorway improvements that will help turn the former Parkside site into one of the region's biggest employment parks.

As well as paying for vital enhancements to junction 22 on the M6, there will also be money to create more capacity on the motorway itself.

It's a huge boost for the Parkside project – part of which will rely on improved motorway links.

Parkside is a joint venture between St Helens Council and our developers, Langtree.

Long-term, we hope to see the development become a rail-enabled regional logistics centre providing up to 6,000 jobs.

I can't overstate Parkside's importance to the borough as a catalyst for kick-starting the local economy.

And this week's news is the best early Christmas present we could have wished for!

The next two or three weeks are probably the most important for many of our town centre shops and other businesses.

Black Friday undoubtedly gave many a boost.

But in the run up to Christmas every day is crucial for stores that have seen increasing competition from online and out of town retailers.

Everyone wants to see a successful town centre, so I'd urge everyone looking for that perfect Christmas gift to see what's available on your doorstep before looking elsewhere.

These are hard times for everyone, I know.

But this is where a trip to St Helens town centre comes into its own.

On Saturdays it will cost you absolutely nothing to park your car in the build-up to Christmas – so you're saving some money there.

And, of course, it's not as far to drive, so that's less money going on petrol too.

And don't forget...during the week it's free to park after 3pm too.

As you've probably noticed, we're switching on Christmas lights in many different parts of the borough – bringing a festive feel to our communities.

Across the borough, the countdown to Christmas is now well and truly underway, with residents turning out for their local switch-on ceremonies.

But a special mention must go to the Haydock switch on though, where brave 12-year-old cancer sufferer Harrison Ledsham was the guest of honour – and performed the switch-on.

He was joined by his proud parents and fellow Blackbrook Royals players as he hit the red button to officially declare the countdown to Christmas for Haydock at Haydock Library on Church Road.

It was yet another honour for the Haydock High School pupil, who was recently named the Merseyrail Child of Courage.

Harrison was diagnosed with bone cancer earlier this year and had to have his left leg amputated in the summer after surgeons decided his treatment had not been effective enough.

He is a remarkable young man and an inspiration to us all.

RAOD TEST: KIA SOUL EV

First all-electric Kia has Soul

By Matt Kimberley
newsroom@lancspublicationd.co.uk
@LeighReport

KIA has played a blinder by choosing the Soul as its first all-electric European car.

This is the first all-electric car in the history of Kia's meteoric global rise to make it to Europe.

We're by far the most demanding continent when it comes to cars, after all, so it had to be good before it was signed off.

Bosses chose the Soul because it had the right combination of space for batteries, a suitable pricing structure to accommodate an electrified halo model and, not least importantly, the right image.

Younger people; especially early adopters, are the targets.

You'll immediately notice the blanked-off grille, which helps aerodynamics, but the firm could have done a neater job of designing a flap to hide the charging port.

But look at the car a bit longer and it'll suddenly click – it's not white.

Nor is white even a colour option for the Soul EV. Praise the Lord.

The Soul is a young-feeling, fashion-led car that takes up a small amount of road space

ROAD TEST: LEXUS NX300H

The NX-t big thing in hybrids?

By Frederic Manby
Motoring Writer

The NX300h is the second Lexus petrol/hybrid soft roader. It is cheaper than the RX, which pioneered hybrid power for the sector. It has a lighter ecological impact but is not much smaller, certainly big enough for the family unit.

This combination of a 2.5 litre petrol engine and two electric motors in the Lexus gives economy matching a diesel and lower CO2 emissions. The second motor drives the rear wheels – making it all-wheel-drive and useful in mud and snow. There is also the possibility of running purely on electric power at low speed – subject to having a flat or downhill road and sufficient juice in the battery and a very light foot on the pedal. The battery gets its charge from the petrol engine and when slowing down.

The catalogue quotes an overall figure of 54mpg and 121g/km of Co2. This carbon rating gives it low annual road tax and low benefit in kind business tax. Being a petrol engine it also scores over diesel in lower nitrous oxide emissions – which are injurious to health. Its 54mpg in the brochure also looks a match for diesel power but our undemanding drive showed just 35mpg on one drive and 42mpg on the next.

Prices for the 4x4 versions start at £31,495 but you can save a couple of thousand quid with the front-drive entry model – which deletes the rear electric motor. This S entry model costs £29,495. It improves the mpg claim to 56.5mpg and reduces the Co2 to 116g, meaning tax band C instead of D. These savings seem inconsequential. Note also that weight-saving made to achieve them mean that Lexus does not recommend towing with this S model. For that £31,495 you can have the better-equipped SE with 4x4 traction and a braked towing capacity of 1500kg – enough for a nag or two.

Equipment levels are decent. All have a reversing camera and adaptive cruise control with automatic safety braking which will bring the car to a halt. The general feel is plush and smart – viz the fittings which include a wristwatch sized clock and a removable make-up mirror clipped between the front seats. Lexus expects the biggest demand to be for the Luxury grade (£34,495) which has heated, powered leather seats. There's a sportily sprung, mesh-faced F Sport version with grippier seats, metal fillet inserts and some other cosmetics, a wireless phone charging base and a power tailgate with remote buttons all for £36,995. Top of the NX range is the full house Premier grade (running on standard suspension) with full LED lamps, all-round parking display diagram, touch pad navigation (distracting to input) and a rear cross-traffic alert at £42,995. It also has Mark Levinson hi-fi. Rather strange, then, to see a rear seat belt suspended from the roof rather than integral with the seats.

The official figures say it has a combined 195 horse power and a 0-60 time around nine seconds through the CVT automatic gearbox. It all works as you'd expect but it does not feel all that quick and when working hard the four-cylinder engine has a boring drone.

On the road the NX shows its presence. There is the current Lexus face, with a grille that is ever more extravagant, hardly shy, definitely shy-making unless you have that sort of brash personality. There's plenty of shaping in the body panels, ending in tail lamps which protrude in a 3D wedge. In contrast, the door handles are sleek and flush, with the key insert hole (if needed) only on view when the handle is pulled out.

Practicalities include a space-saver spare wheel – unique as standard fit in its sector – a large "glovesbox" and the ability to carry golf bags across the load area rather than at a diagonal. The cup holders have a high friction liner so that bottle caps can be opened one-handed by the driver.

You can specify an electrically powered tailgate and powered folding/erecting rear seats with control switches throughout the cabin. That's convenient.

Verdict: I am not convinced by its real life fuel economy but high tax payers and business users will like its official figures.

Saintly support for Autism charity

SAINTS

Saints have been supporting St Helens Autism Support (SAS) - a local charity whose aim is to raise awareness of the condition in the town.

The group held their third annual ball at the club recently and raised more than £6,000 to help purchase iPads and provide support.

Saints chief executive Mike Rush said: "This is a local charity that is very close to my heart and one I, as well as the club, are delighted to be able to support.

"I know personally how Autism can affect families and raising awareness as well as helping people to get support is vital."

Saints' game with Wakefield last season was dedicated to the charity which aims to assist those in the borough who have been diagnosed with Autism Spectrum Disorder (ASD).

SAS has so far raised more than £30,000 with supporters completing cycling challenges from the battlefields of Belgium to St Helens, Galway to St Helens and most recently Saints (Southampton) to Saints (Northampton) and Saints (St Helens RLFC).

Nick Mussel of NS Connections, who donated two iPads on the night, said: "I felt a strong connection to this charity as my own son was diagnosed with Autism back in 2011 when he was just three years old."

SAS chairman Tom Jackson added: "I have children who have been diagnosed with ASD and have been overwhelmed by the support we have had so far in support of children in our town who have a condition that most people would not recognise.

"The donations so far will go a long way to improving their lives."

AFC Liverpool 7-3 St Helens Town
St Helens Town 2-0 Bacup & Rossendale Borough

It was a mixed week for St Helens Town as they fell to a midweek loss before recovering to record a vital weekend victory.

AFC Liverpool took an early 2-0 lead before Kris Bell continued his prolific form to pull one back for Town.

The hosts made it 3-1 just before the break but Town again bounced back as Bell netted his second of the contest.

As Town poured forward looking to level they were picked off by some swift counter attacks and the pacey hosts raced into a 6-2 lead before Lewis Coyle headed home from a set piece to make it 6-3.

A late goal from the hosts left Town wondering what might have been.

Saturday saw Town record a vital victory over basement outfit Bacup & Rossendale Borough at Brocstedes Park.

The hosts bossed the early possession and the chances started to come.

Kris Bell linked with skipper Andy Gillespie to open the scoring. Bell did well on the right wing before picking out Gillespie and his quick touch and shot found the net.

The lead was doubled before the interval when good work by Jack Hont on the left saw him beat the full-back and send a dangerous cross to the front post which Bell headed home.

Town turn their attentions to the FA Vase this Saturday (December 6) as they welcome Premier Division leaders Tadcaster Albion to Brocstedes Park.

Kick-off is at 3pm.

Veterans take on cross country run

ATHLETICS

Veteran members of St Helens Sutton AC decided to test themselves against quality opposition by participating in the British Athletics Cross-challenge event at Liverpool's Sefton Park.

With a field of over 500 and with leading athletes attempting to book their places in their national teams, the competition was of a very high standard. On a fine day, Aldershot's international Andy Vernon, unbeaten this season in cross-country events, led the field from start to finish.

John Greenall, a M50yrs. veteran was the club's first finisher in 231st place, running the 9.8km course in 37mins38secs with Ian Hayburn (M45) not far behind in 38min02secs. Andrew Wilson (M40) finished just over a minute later. Also finishing in the 300s were Chris Levy (M40), Maurice Collins (M50), Andy O'Connor (M50), Mark Liptrot (M50), Ian Roberts (M40) and Greg Carns (M45). Further back were Peter Johnson (M45), Alan McNally (M60) and Sonya Monaghan (F40).

Sidac delight at cup shock

COMBINATION

There were only two league fixtures in the St Helens Combination on Saturday (November 29).

They were both extremely entertaining affairs though!

York FC and Clock Face Miners FC fought out a thrilling 3-3 draw.

Gregory Rice scored a brace for the hosts, who weren't helped by Liam McGuire's sending off, with Dean Lewis scoring the other.

In reply, Mark Gavin scored a brace for the visitors, with Sam Gregory also netting.

The point left York third in the table - albeit having played the most games of any side - and Clock Face in down in eighth, but with four games in hand on Saturday's rivals.

The other league fixture saw high-flying Boilermakers Arms FC cruise to a 4-1 home win against Prescot Sun FC.

Liam Davies scored a brace for the home side to complement other goals from Ste Wolhuter and Ryan Platt.

Kevin Harrison scored the consolation goal for Prescot Sun FC.

That result meant that Boilermakers have now won eight of their nine league games this season - leaving them second in the table, bettered only by Sutton Heath FC.

Prescot Sun remain in joint sixth.

In the cup, Sidac Social FC caused an upset by beating top-of-the-table Sutton Heath 4-3.

A Carl Shaw hat-trick showed the home side the way, with Evan Dunleavy scoring the other.

Daryl McCartney scored a brace for the visitors, with Brad Coy netting the other.

Carborundum FC saw off Boilermakers Arms FC's reserve team 2-1 thanks to goals from Keith Dennett and Tom Philbin.

There were also wins for Ecclesfield FC and New Street FC.

Ecclesfield won 3-0 against Bird I'th Hand FC and New Street downed Sidac Social FC's reserves by the same margin.

Liam Bowden, Chris Brown and Tom Ellis were the scorers for Ecclesfield.

West Park FC and Sutton Junction FC fought out a thrilling 3-3 draw.

The tie was then settled by a dreaded penalty shootout - with West Park winning 3-2.

LSH top the table after hard-fought home win

RUGBY UNION

South Lancs Cheshire One League

LIVERPOOL ST HELENS 20 ALTRINCHAM KERSAL 13

LSH emerged victorious as they and Altrincham Kersal served up a tremendous game of rugby, befitting of the two remaining unbeaten sides in South Lancashire/Cheshire One.

The first half was an even affair, as if two boxers were sizing each other up at the start of a championship fight.

A Greg Smith penalty for LSH and a try from Kersal winger Tony O'Connor saw Kersal reach the break 5-3 in front, before another O'Connor try put them seven points ahead.

But the Moss Laners then took control of both possession and territory. Smith blasted through to score under the posts, converting to level the scores.

Both sides added penalties to make it 13-13 before, with time running out, Ian Stanley roared over after good work from Jake Hodson for the match winning score.

WEST PARK 23 WINNINGTON PARK 26

In a good competitive contest , efficiently controlled by a young referee, West Park were unfortunate, having scored four tries to three, not to come away with more than the two league points eventually secured.

An early successful penalty after a collapsed scrum put the visitors in front, but a fine team effort involving forwards and backs saw West Park take the lead with an excellent try finished off in the corner by the strong running winger Josh Ainsworth. Full-back Matt Savage was unable to convert the try but made amends with a well struck penalty to increase their advantage.

The lead was short-lived, however, as Winnington Park were awarded a further penalty when the home side were caught offside.

West Park continued to press and, after being held up over the opponents line, won the resulting scrum, recycling the ball with speed and accuracy to enable winger Chris Fortune to score.

The visitors didn't take long to get back on the score sheet though, and with an increasing advantage in the scrum, got the ball to their backs to square the game at 13 points apiece.

As half time approached West Park were caught napping as the visitors took a quick tap penalty and passed the ball along the line to score a try which gave them a seven-point cushion at the interval.

The visitors stretched their lead with an early penalty in the second half but West Park looked the more dangerous with ball in hand. A slick pass after a break by full-back Matt Savage gave winger and man of the match Ainsworth with an opportunity to score his second try.

But the home side were undone again by the visitor's kicker who slotted over another penalty to seal the points.

RUSKIN PARK 23 GLOSSOP 20

Park's narrow home win ended a dismal run of form.

TALKING SPORT

With JOHN YATES

One person who will be taking more than a passing interest in the progress and development of Saints' latest recruits from Wales, Calvin Wellington and Regan Grace, will be fellow countryman and club president Kel Coslett.

The teenagers have joined the Super League champions on part-time 12-month contracts and will initially be part of the academy set-up.

No doubt record goalkicker Kel, who joined Saints in the early 1960s after catching the eye playing Rugby Union for Abervan and Llanelli, and who still lives in his 'adopted town', will be hoping the boyos enjoy as much success as he and other Welshmen achieved after heading north to ply their trade at Knowsley Road.

The long list of top-class Welsh Saints includes Scott Gibbs, Glyn Moses, John Warlow, Jonathan Griffiths, Clive Griffiths and John Mantle.

Could Wellington and Grace join this illustrious band? Only time will tell.

Rugby League seems to be banging its head against a brick wall when pressing for national recognition as a sport - and sections of the media must shoulder a great deal of the blame.

The BBC are the latest organisation to come under fire from Greg Mulholland, the MP for Leeds North who is also the chair person of the UK Parliamentary Rugby League Group.

The Lib-Dem MP is urging viewers to boycott the Beeb's Sports Personality of the Year Award as a protest against the exclusion from list of 10 nominees of the former Bradford Bulls ace Sam Burgess, who is arguably the greatest rugby player on the planet (and I'm talking about both codes).

It seems the fact that he became the first Brit to win the Clive Churchill Medal as man of the match when his Aussie club, South Sydney Rabbitohs, won the NRL Grand Final in October counts for nothing.

Surely his exploits far outweigh some of the nominees which include dressage rider Charotte Dujardin (heard her name mentioned vaguely in the past), swimmer Adam Peaty (who's he?) and gymnast Max Whitlock (never heard of him).

But, not surprisingly, since Burgess' decision to join the kick and clap ranks at Bath - where he will be teaming up with former Saints ace Kyle Eastmond - has received almost as much publicity as the Beatles enjoyed during the 1960s!

The Daily Mail, whose coverage of Rugby League at times falls way short of expecations, actually devoted a full two pages last week about the Yorshire lad switching codes.

Had he been a Rugby Union player going in the opposite direction, I doubtwhether it would have been anything other than a down page story - and left at that.

Unfortunately, in many people's eyes, Rugby League is still considered a minority spot despite the tremendous support it gets from at least one voice of the media - Sky TV - whose coverage is exemplary.

Neither did the the closure of the national newspaper offices in Manchester more than 30 years ago, where more than a 1,000 journalists were employed at the time, help matters as many had an affinity with Rugby League and knew the game inside out..

Everything was transferred to London and since then it would be fair to say that the majority of editorial decision-makers haven't had a Rugby League background and are unable to judge the 13-a-side code on its true merits.

I know Prime Minister's Question Time is exclusively for politicians to introduce matters concerning his or her own constituencies - but surely if Mr Mulholland plays his cards right he can bring up the issue of scant coverage of Rugby League on the biggest stage of all, even if he does it in a round about way.

'Players for the future'

Saints have returned to the Welsh valleys to snap up two promising youngsters in a bid to strengthen their already highly-rated academy system.

Centre Calvin Wellington, 18, and winger Regan Grace, 17, have signed 12-month part-time contracts after impressing on trial this season and the club will be hoping they can follow in the footsteps of fellow Welshmen such as Scott Gibbs, who was a member of Saints' double-winning side in 1996, the first season of summer rugby - and record points scorer and current club president, Kel Coslett.

"We have a number of scouts and connections in South Wales and Chris O'Callaghan asked us to take a look at Calvin and Regan," Saints U19s head coach Derek Traynor said.

"We went to see them play rugby union for Aberavon Quins and they really impressed us.

"From there we invited them for a two-week trial at the club and they played three matches.

"We were really pleased with how they conducted themselves on and off the field and we are delighted they have agreed a contract with us."

Regan played rugby league for Scorpions at 16s and Wales under 18s.

Calvin played for Wales at U16s and U18s as well as the Scorpions.

Derek Traynor said: "Calvin and Regan love rugby league and are eager to progress into first team players.

"They have genuine pace and in the month they have been here they have been working hard, have great attitudes and are impressing the coaching staff.

"They are certainly players for the future.'

He added: "We see South Wales as a real growth area for us and we believe there is a lot of untapped talent down there. With our contacts, we are hoping to realise this and Calvin and Regan are just the start."

England academy call up

Saints youngster Oliver Davies has been named in the England academy squad for the two-game Autumn Academy International Series with the Australian Schoolboys.

Davies was rewarded for a fine season after getting the nod from coach Richard Marshall

Eight Super League clubs are represented in the 20-man squad, which features four players from Leeds Rhinos, four from Wigan, three from Hull FC, three from Warrington Wolves, three from Huddersfield and one apiece from London Broncos and Widnes Vikings.

England Academy coach Richard Marshall says some tough decisions were made when agreeing on the final 20 and is pleased to see so many clubs represented in the final squad.

"All coaches involved made the decision on the squad with an eye on the opposition and what we needed to compete against them," said Marshall.

"Several players included were from outside of the initial 40-man squad. Players were selected from all over the country and it's encouraging that so many different academies are included within the group.

"It's our job to get them playing as a team and supporting each other throughout our camp. Ultimately our goal is for the players to push on to the Knights programme and then on to full representative honours."

England face Australia in two games at Leigh Sports Village (December 6 and 12).

Marshall is expecting a physical test against the Australian Schoolboys but will be mainly looking at how the England squad comes together in camp and how they prepare themselves for the International Series.

"We expect them to be strong, professional and talented," said the England Academy coach.

"We will be concentrating more on the England boys and how they handle being in camp and playing for their country. It's a massive honour to play for your country and we hope they embrace this and enjoy the experience."

Track ace Lauren is making rapid progress

Lauren Bate-Lowe competing for Great Britain

Teenage cyclist earns coveted Olympic spot

CYCLING

By Chris Amery
chris.amery@jpress.co.uk

Just two years ago Lauren Bate-Lowe hadn't even seen the inside of a cycling velodrome or ridden a track bike - let alone competed in a race.

But now the St Helens teenager has been hand-picked for Team GB's prestigious Olympic development programme.

The move means that the Cansfield High pupil, of Haydock, has been identified as a potential Olympic star of the future.

Lauren has enjoyed a meteoric rise in the world of track cycling to date - she was picked for the GB talent team when she was just 13 years old and has since been raking in the medals.

Earlier this year she claimed four medals at the British Cycling national championships in the under 16s and under 18s categories, despite being just 14 at the time.

Lauren, who recently turned 15, was then selected as a member of the North West cycling team to compete in the annual Sainsbury's inter-regional school sports event.

Competing alongside fellow local cyclist, Chris Heaton, of Eccleston, she helped the North West team - known as the bumble bees for their distinctive black and yellow strip - claim a comfortable victory over the next best team, Wales.

Lauren's performances included a silver medal in the match sprint, a silver in the keirin and a silver in the team sprint final alongside teammate Monica Dew - with the duo missing out on gold by just one hundredth of a second.

But in the blue ribbon team pursuit event Lauren and her teammates made no mistake, claiming gold and setting a national under 16s girls record time in the final.

Her proud grandfather, Arthur Bate, said: "I know I'm biased but Lauren's progress and achievements can only be described as amazing - especially considering that two years ago she hadn't even seen the inside of a velodrome, never mind ridden a track bike.

"Her tremendous success is all down to her dedication to the sport and the first-class coaching she receives from top GB coaches."

Lauren is also a member of the SSE Next Generation ambassador scheme, which provides support for some of the UK's brightest sporting prospects.

She rubbed shoulders with six-time Olympic track cycling champion Sir Chris Hoy at a get-together in Loughborough earlier this year - and has just as much ambition to reach the pinnacle herself.

"It is great to have the support and it can help me buy equipment and just help me complete everything I need to do each week," she said.

"It is nice to be recognised too and to know that people see me and know I am good at what I do. I got to meet Chris and I rode with him not long ago so he recognised me, which was nice. We just had a chat about sprint stuff and it was good fun."

Red Devils to pay Long's lost wages

SAINTS

Red Devils chief executive Martin Vickers said: "Because of his lack of communication there has been some confusion. The club will pay him what he is due up until when he asked for his release, which was in the middle of October. There is no issue with that.

"We had lots of difficulties contacting Sean while he was away with the Samoa team. We contacted him on several occasions to say we would rather he didn't leave the club.

"We got to a point where, because there was no contact, reluctantly we had to accept his request for an immediate release.

"With all the confusion around his position, because he wasn't in dialogue with us, we just had no alternative but to suspend his arrangements until he got back in contact with us. The first contact we had, since he got back, was on Sunday this week."

The Rugby Football League is aware of the situation but Vickers said the governing body had not expressed any concerns.

He added: "The RFL has asked questions about these things but not raised any issues with me. They have been in dialogue just asking for clarification."

St Helens said Long was unavailable for comment.

Bookies are backing the Saints

Saints have been installed 4/1 second favourites with the bookies to retain their Super League crown under new head coach Keiron Cunningham in 2015.

Rivals Wigan, who Saints beat in a pulsating Grand Final at Old Trafford in October, are the 3/1 favourites.

Warrington Wolves are rated a 9/2 chance to achieve Grand Final glory with Leeds Rhinos a shade longer at 11/2.

Catalans Dragons are the next best in the betting at 12/1.

A repeat of the 2014 Grand Final - Saints vs Wigan - is rated just a 6/1 chance by the bookmakers.

SEAN'S LONG WAIT FOR PAY NEARLY OVER

Salford Red Devils have promised to pay Sean long for his consultancy work

Promise over Red Devils wages

SAINTS

By John Yates

@StHelensReport

Salford Red Devils have assured Saints' new assistant coach Sean Long that he WILL be paid any missing wages following his work as a consultant with the Mancunians.

Early last month the Red Devils announced that they had "reluctantly" released Long from his contract following a request issued by the legendary former St Helens and Great Britain scrum-half.

He has since taken up a backroom position at Saints, the First Utility Super League champions, under their new head coach, Long's former team-mate, Keiron Cunningham.

It has now been reported that Long was not paid his October salary by Salford.

The club have confirmed a payment was stopped but explained that there was confusion surrounding Long's status after he asked for a release.

Long was away working with the Samoa national side during the Four Nations tournament when he made his request and the club had difficulty contacting him to discuss the matter.
